GETTING INVOLVED

The Alumni Fund

The Alumni Fund was set up in February 2005 to give alumni and friends of the University the opportunity to become involved in its future success.

The Fund aims to raise the means to invest in the future, ensuring that the University remains at the forefront of education, and that Bournemouth University degrees continue to be valued as much by employers in the future as they are now.

Current priorities for the Fund are Alumni Fund Scholarships, The University Library and Music and Sports facilities. All of these are designed to enhance the student experience at Bournemouth.

If you are interested in making a gift to the Fund or would like more information on the work it supports, please contact Rob Hughes, Development Director at rhughes@bournemouth.ac.uk

Alumni at Work

There are a number of ways in which alumni can help both current students and their fellow graduates in the world of work. Alumni can offer to take students on work placements, volunteer as a mentor or give talks related to their specific profession.

Get Active

We are looking for alumni to get actively involved with the Alumni Association, so if you would like to start up your own regional or international group, or are interested in becoming an alumni ambassador please let us know.

However you would like to get involved, we would love to hear from you.
